Number of uninsured growing

No matter which time period is used as the basis for calculations, the number of uninsured Americans increased last year, according to new survey results from the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention. The agency measured the lack of insurance three ways. The figures are extrapolated from interviews with 75,456 people as part of the National Health Interview Survey, which is conducted continuously throughout the year. The findings, in pdf, can be found online (<http://www.cdc.gov/nchs/data/nhis/earlyrelease/insur200706.pdf>).

THE THREE MEASURES ARE NOT MUTUALLY EXCLUSIVE, AND A GIVEN INDIVIDUAL COULD BE COUNTED IN MORE THAN ONE MEASURE.
