

Marshfield Clinic Health System Spotlight

Marshfield Clinic Health System (MCHS) is an integrated health system serving a largely rural-based area in Wisconsin. Patients can use telehealth tools to manage their care and have access to providers of more than 80 specialties and subspecialties.

In focus: Marshfield Clinic Health System

1 How Marshfield Clinic Health System moves medicine

"As a fully-integrated Health System, we can provide care to people close to their homes, on their terms and across the continuum of care."

2 Members Move Medicine: Placing patient at center of care

Kori Krueger, MD: "The MCHS mission is to enrich lives through accessible, affordable, compassionate health care. The patient is placed at the center of our care delivery process."

3 How Marshfield achieved panel management

Periodic reviews of clinical practices ensure patient needs are both met and anticipated. The overall goal is to manage visits and close the care gaps.

Read highlights from other group practices

Visit the AMA Medical Group Spotlight page for more information on what group practices are doing to ensure patient and physician well-being.