AMA fights against Medicare cuts, defending practices & access to care

The American Medical Association achieved a significant victory following months of fierce advocacy. Congress acted to address the combined 9.75% in Medicare physician payment cuts, which amounted to a physician payment cliff and were set to take effect Jan. 1, 2022.

The wheels of Congress don’t always move quickly, but with our persistence, they moved toward preserving the viability of physician practices and maintaining access to care. Here’s the action AMA took on your behalf:

- Led far-reaching extensive grassroots campaigns—resulting in 250,000 emails and more than 8,100 phone calls to Congress, urging them to act
- Presented a powerful, united front at the federal level with a coalition of more than 120 state and specialty societies
- Challenging Congress to work on systemic reforms and make Medicare work better for you and your patients

We celebrate a win now, and we know our work will continue, fighting tirelessly against future cuts—and against all barriers to patient care. No matter what lies ahead, the AMA is your powerful ally.

Principles for a rational Medicare payment system

While potentially devastating cuts were avoided this year, the Medicare payment system is on an unsustainable path. Much work remains to implement the fundamental reforms needed to stabilize this critically important program and prioritize continued access to care for Medicare patients. The AMA and the Federation of Medicine have created a set of principles outlining broad goals for reform.

What physicians need to know about AMA advocacy on Medicare pay cuts

Copyright 1995 - 2021 American Medical Association. All rights reserved.
Senior Vice President of Advocacy Todd Askew discusses new legislation that averts a Medicare payment crisis in the latest AMA Moving Medicine video.