American Conference on Physician Health 2023

Overview

Co-sponsored by Stanford Medicine, the American Medical Association and Mayo Clinic, ACPH is the premier U.S. conference on physician health.

Featuring keynote speakers, interactive workshops, poster presentations and multiple networking opportunities, ACPH promotes scientific research and discourse on health system infrastructure and actionable steps that organizations can take to improve physician well-being. The best and brightest physicians, researchers, residents, students, and other interested parties from across the country will come together to delve into this year’s conference theme: “Building the workplace of the future.”

Make key connections, gain practical solutions and find the inspiration to improve professional satisfaction in your organization.
