6 issues to watch at the 2022 AMA Interim Meeting

Nearly 700 physicians and medical students are gathering in Honolulu for the 2022 AMA Interim Meeting to consider proposals across a wide range of clinical practice, payment, medical education and public health topics. The meeting’s opening session is Saturday and the meeting runs through Nov. 15.

Among the notable issues that will be addressed are these:

- Addressing the impact of private equity on medical training.
- Advocating reduced greenhouse gas-emissions to protect public health.
- Designating opioid settlement money to train more addiction-treatment physicians.
- Ensuring accuracy of pulse-oximeter readings in patients with pigmented skin.
- Opposing athletic-eligibility policies that mandate clinically unnecessary medical interventions.
- Removing measures of Native ancestry in medical school applications.
