Improving Environmental Sustainability in Your Medical Practice

Overview

From the largest health systems to the smallest private practice, every organization has an environmental impact. Taking steps to improve environmental sustainability can lead to better health outcomes and bring major savings to the health care organization.
Join AMA STEPS Forward® to learn more about how to improve environmental sustainability in your practice. Michael Tutty, PhD, MHA, group vice president of AMA Professional Satisfaction and Practice Sustainability, will be joined by Todd Sack, MD, FACP of Mygreendoctor.org to present the benefits of going green and effective strategies to implement throughout your practice. The strategies discussed will apply whether adopting these environmental goals for the first time or building on to existing work.
