

2017 American Medical Association Foundation Impact Report

Dear Friends,

As I reflect on the past year serving as President of the American Medical Association Foundation, I am most thankful for the opportunities to engage with inspiring physicians—to hear their stories and learn what they are doing to improve the lives of their patients. When I think about the impact the AMAF has on the field of medicine, and on those dedicated physicians within it one quote in particular comes to mind:

“The AMA Foundation provides a great deal of encouragement and support for future physicians like myself who have the passion, but may not have the resources to make the changes that are needed in health care. This scholarship has been the greatest acknowledgment I have received thus far in my career, and it has provided me with the fuel to keep pushing forward to make a difference in those lives that need it.”

Mark Lorthe, 2017 Minority Scholars Award Recipient

This report celebrates our donor community, who empower us to recognize and celebrate deserving individuals such as Mark. Your generosity and investment in our programs truly makes our mission to bring physicians and communities together to improve our nation’s health possible.

Under the guidance of our new President, Joshua Cohen, MD, MPH, FAHS, the Foundation will continue to strengthen its national visibility with increased community health grant funding and a reimagined awards and scholarship program. These allow us to reward and celebrate the work that is being done in communities across our nation in service for those who need it most.

Let’s build on the momentum from a successful 2016 and make 2017 even better.

With Gratitude,

Nancy Kyler

Immediate Past President
AMA Foundation

Recognizing Outstanding Service in Medicine

Krystal Tomei, MD, was drawn to medicine through a personal life-changing event. One of her cousins sustained a traumatic brain injury as a toddler. Being a part of a family that was impacted by an unexpected health crisis, she understands the feeling of helplessness that parents can feel. This is why she committed herself to the challenging and rewarding field of pediatric neuroscience. “I can reassure every parent that I am treating their child as if they were mine, and I will never lose sight of the trust they place in me.”

Tomei has always worked hard to combine a successful career as a pediatric neurosurgeon with her desire to have a greater impact on her community. This inspired her to get involved with the AMA and propelled her on a course towards leadership.

“Receiving the 2017 Excellence in Medicine Leadership Award reinforced my commitment to giving back through service in organized medicine. This recognition from the AMA Foundation is a reminder and a motivator to strive to be better for my patients, their families, my peers, and myself.”

Born to Give

Members of the AMAF team read for a great meeting.

Each year, the Foundation takes advantage of the opportunity provided by the American Medical Association's House of Delegates meeting, which brings together thousands of physicians. It is the ideal setting to personally engage with many of our donors to update them on our programmatic impact and thank them for their support.

This year, unveiled our exciting new "Born to Give" campaign, in collaboration with the AMA's larger "Born to" branding initiative. This collaborative branding is the first step of many in reinforcing the values that unite us in improving our nation's health

This close alignment with the AMA, combined with a call to action delivered to the House by former Foundation Board President William E. Kobler, MD, and echoed by the Speaker of the House, resulted in a record-setting fundraising year for the Foundation. We raised nearly $120,000 during the meeting and attracted many new supporters.

We were humbled by this outpouring of generosity, which allowed us to exceed our fundraising goals and propel us into the year ahead.

Celebrating all our amazing donors at the meeting.

Community Health Grants Program

Made possible by the generosity of individual and corporate donors, our programs bring together physicians, businesses, health care providers, academic institutions and community leaders to help solve our country's most difficult health care challenges.

Community Health Programs

Provides charitable grants to financially support innovative partnerships of physician-led and community-based agencies, including free clinics focused on the prevention and management of chronic diseases among vulnerable populations. These grants are offered for $40,000-$60,000 and are potentially renewable for up to three years.

Excellence in Medicine Awards

Recognizes physicians who exemplify the highest values of volunteerism, community engagement, leadership and dedication to the care of underserved populations

LGBTQ Fellowship

Develops and implements post-graduate fellowships designed to train physicians to specifically address and treat the health care needs of the LGBTQ community.

Leadership Development Institute

Offers a unique leadership development program that includes a weekend retreat, mentorship pairing and additional networking opportunities for students in their final year of medical school.

4 Healthy Living Grants for $40,000 distributed for prescription drug safety programs

Medical Education Program

Cultivates and provides $10,000 scholarships to a diverse group of medical student leaders committed to serving their communities and improving our nation's health.

Creating a Legacy: A Daughter's Loving Tribute

“It has been a wonderful opportunity for me to honor my father for his outstanding professional and humanitarian commitment,” stated Susan D. Diskin, PhD about her experience establishing a scholarship fund in memory of her physician father. “My father was an inspirational model who lived his commitment to public service and compassionate patient care. His patients used to say, ‘We start feeling better the minute he walks into the room!’ ”

The inaugural Herman E. Diskin, MD Memorial Scholarship will be awarded in April 2018 as part of the AMA Foundation's Physicians of Tomorrow Scholarship Program. Each year the Memorial Fund will grant at least one $10,000 scholarship to a rising fourth-year medical student with financial need who demonstrates an exceptional commitment to public service and empathic patient care.

Herman Diskin was born of humble means in upstate New York on June 28, 1910, the twelfth of thirteen children of a dairy farmer.

As a child, he was impressed by a local physician known for his knowledge and humanistic clinical approach. Later, as a general practitioner in Southern California, Dr. Diskin would similarly inspire other young people to follow in his footsteps, including his daughter, who recalls going with her father on hospital rounds beginning when she was two years old.

“I have the honor of being the next ‘Dr. D.’ ” she stated. Susan has pursued her own career as a clinical psychologist specializing in the treatment of patients coping with the emotional and psychological challenges of serious and/or chronic illness.

“My father lived and believed in the importance of respect for each individual regardless of background or ability to pay. He never forgot his modest origins and remained loyal to the values of responsible health care and unselfish devotion to his patients. This noble ethic was very impressive in shaping my own commitment to working to reduce human suffering.”

Susan believed the AMAF'S scholarship program would provide the ideal forum for honoring the legacy of her father and the ideals for which he stood. The only qualifying criterion for the Herman E. Diskin, MD Memorial Scholarship beyond financial need is the earnest commitment to medical studies and humanitarian concerns.

Susan believes her father would be overjoyed to know that a scholarship in his name would be able to ease some of the financial hardship for a student, since he himself had known financial struggles in achieving his medical degree. “The whole process of creating the Memorial Fund has been extremely rewarding, and I cannot adequately express my gratitude to the AMA Foundation for working with me and supporting my efforts at every step along the way. It is true that the donor receives the richest reward: to be able to provide support for others and to honor my father’s legacy are the greatest gifts I could imagine,” she said.

Recent research on the philanthropy process echoes this spirit and confirms the “giver’s glow,” which is often described by those who engage in donating and contributing to the benefit and well-being of others.

“I believe that my father would join me in my heartfelt appreciation to the AMA Foundation for allowing a dream to come true!”
