

Daniel E. Choi, MD

Daniel E. Choi, MD, an orthopaedic spinal surgeon in Long Island, New York, serves as alternate delegate of the AMA Private Practice Physician Section (PPPS) for the term 2021-2022.

The PPPS is a member interest group within the AMA for physicians in private practice. The Section Governing Council is responsible for directing PPPS efforts to preserve the freedom, independence and integrity of private practice.

Dr. Choi founded his solo practice, Spine Medicine and Surgery of Long Island, during the COVID-19 pandemic and advocates for the viability of independent practice as a Councilor of the Medical Society of the State of New York (MSSNY). He also currently serves on the AMA Ambassadors Steering Committee.