When people ask me about how I got involved in the AMA I often joke that growing up in a swing city in a swing state (Columbus, Ohio) was a driving force. I quickly learned to not discuss politics with friends. However, I quickly realized that becoming a female doctor made my position in the world political. After attending my first AMA meeting during medical school, mostly to present research, I recognized the power my voice could have at the table. I have had the privilege to remain involved in organized medicine at the local, state, and national level since early on in medical school.

I currently serve as the Resident Fellow representative at the Academy of Medicine of Cincinnati. I have helped organize events for the Business in Medicine series. During my chief year in Internal Medicine, I served as the Chair of the Ohio State Medical Association Resident Fellow Section and served on the Ohio State Medical Association Council. I continue to serve on the Focused Legislative Task Force. I served as a member of the HOD Reference Committee B at Annual 2022.

I have enjoyed working on numerous topics from telehealth, medical marijuana, physician wellness, gun violence research, access to care, and medical education at the local, state, and national level. I would be honored to continue to serve as your delegate to the AMA House of Delegates.
