Specialty: Emergency Medicine

Right now, we are at a pivotal point in American history between the global pandemic, current legislation, and the judicial decisions that are impacting our patients' well-being and interfering in the physician-patient relationship. Advocacy is more important than ever in light of these events. As a female and LGBTQIA+ emergency medicine resident, I am truly feeling the weight of these decisions and current events, and I recognize the power that our AMA and the RFS can have in elevating physician voices to ensure the safety of our patients who are affected by the current events. If selected for this position, I would look forward to connecting with the RFS members and voting on resolutions that amplify their voices. It is especially important right now the RFS is heard and represented in the HOD, and I believe I have the leadership and people skills to navigate these conversations through this position. Through my previous roles, I have worked as a liaison within the AMA at some of the highest levels. This experience and these connections will be invaluable in helping me to achieve my goals and the goals of the RFS in this position. It would be my honor to serve my fellow residents in this role and represent them at this level.
